"Sunset Forest" is the name of the beauiful country home of our fellow-townsman, J. J. Fretwell. It was the pleasure of the writer to picnic, together with many others, at this beautiful spot last Saturday, and we speak truthfully when we say that Rev. M. M. Grier, D. D., will preach a sermon at the close of the High School at Honea Path, on Sunday, May 24th, and Rev. Lansing Burrows, D. D. of Augusta, will deliver the literary address on the Tuesday following, 26th inst.

We invite you attention to the new advertisement of the Yates Shoe Co. Their stock is complete, and they are now offering some rare bargains. Note the prices quoted in their advertisement, and when you need a pair of shoes don't fail to give them a call.

Mr. Fretwell has one of the prettiest locations for a country home it has ever been our pleasure to see. As you enter the gate, a beautiful drive leads circuitously through a natural forest of oak, hickory, &c., to the spring, which is tastefully pavelined. This spring, is very large and deep and its waters are as clear as crystal, and noted for their purity and coldness. There are, besides this spring, two others, containing mineral proprieties. A Happy Marriage.

On last Wednesday evening there was a happy marriage at the home of Mr. J. F. Clinkscales, on North Main street, the contracting parties being Miss Carrie Clink-scales and Mr. Oswald Breszeale. Much nterest had been manifested by the friends of this popular young couple, and expecta-tion was at its height when the wedding day arrived; and busy, loving hands, com-nenced to transform the little cottage into bower of beauty.

The distinctive design was carried out in baskets covered in roses—plack and white—garlands of green hung from the ceiling, trailed over door ways and crept over pictures and bric-a-brac.

In the parlor the window curtains were decorated in fern leaves, and a large basket, covered in white roses, hung from the ceiling tied with white ribbon. In the centre of the floor lay a large white satin rug bordered with white roses for the bride and groom to stand upon. Under the lectric lights these decorations looked most enchanting.

At 9 o'clock the wedding march was played by Miss Zoe Bleckley, and the wedding party began to assemble and form heir positions. First came Mr. Hugh Russell and Miss Ada Breszeale, Mr. Bert. McCully and Miss Anna Clinkscales (from Belton), Mr. Will. Sullivan and Miss Annie Patrick, Mr. Swain Gilmer and Miss Anna Humphreys. The groom entered with his best man, Mr Richard Speer. They took their stand opposite each other. Then came the lovely bride leaning on the arm of her sister, Miss Battle Clinkscales. The bride was attired in white China silk, trimmed in chiffon pleatings and white satin ribbons; a soft filmy veil enveloped her form; her wreath was orange blossoms and maiden hair ferns. She carried a bouquet of Marshal Neil roses tied with white sati ribbon. All the bridesmaids wore white organdi trimmed in ribbon, and carried bouquets of pink and white roses. As they entered they scattered the petals in the bride's pathway.

The beautiful and impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. D. E. Frierson.

At 11 o'clock the guests assembled in the dining room to partake of an elegant and sumptuous supper. The decorations in this room were elaborate and beautiful.

White ribbons suspended from the ceiling entwined with smilax hung over the table in graceful effect. The mantle was covered in white and banked in snow-balls and smilax, palms and ferns. Beautiful little jeweled stick pins were given each guest as a souvenir. The generous hospitality of the host and hostess were much enjoyed. and not until a late hour did the guest depart, all having enjoyed this beautiful home wedding. The presents were beau-tiful, numerous and useful.
